Konopnicki announces transportation workshop

Representative Bill Konopnicki recently announced that the Arizona Department of Transportation is hosting a public workshop in Safford and two other District 5 cities to solicit public input on a long-range vision for the future of transportation in Arizona. This is part of the statewide transportation planning process known as "Building a Quality Arizona."

The Safford community workshop is Thursday, March 27, 5:30-7 p.m., in the Graham County General Services building on 921 Thatcher Blvd.

This community workshop is designed to encourage the local community to hear information about the department's planning process, review the work to date and provide input. This is the public's opportunity to let ADOT know what it feels are the area's transportation needs for the next 40 years.

Representative Konopnicki stated, "The big cities in Arizona get too much attention from transportation planners. This is the time to make our case for highways, airports and railroads in rural Arizona."
